

The Highest Clothes Prices in History Are Just Ahead

You'll pay a higher price for a dependable suit or overcoat this fall than you ever paid before. To cite all the causes would be a long story, the gist of which is that woollens are of record scarcity and are being held at the highest prices in history. Our intimate connections with the biggest mills of this and foreign countries enables us to speak with authority—be prepared within the next two or three months to pay MUCH HIGHER prices for clothes than at any time in the past.

Waddington Trophy At Stake In Play At Colonial Club
Play starts Saturday in the fourth lap for the Waddington trophy over the Colonial course. The qualifying round will begin at noon and entries will be paired upon their arrival at the club. This is because many of the Colonial players are in Charleston, Miss. for the special meet there on the Fourth.
The Waddington trophy was presented in 1916, by the then president of the club and must be won twice in succession or on three different occasions for permanent possession. Robert M. Metcalf won out in 1917; Leo Carter followed in 1918, and Frank Zimmerman arrived in 1919. Zimmerman then is the only one who can pull through as the owner this season. He eliminated the field the Waddington trophy shifts to the Zimmerman den.
Much work has been done on the greens during the week and R. Paul Towner, of the games committee, is authority for the statement that they are in the best shape of their sprightly career.

CROWD PRINCE TO BE MARRIED KING WITH HIS PAPA

many as to discourage others from ever again attempting to repeat this infamy.
There was a significant passage when the premier mentioned the league of nations. Many of the members cheered, but seemingly nearly an equal number burst into laughter.
"I beg of you to try it. I beg of you to take it seriously," the premier protested.
Proceeding, he declared:
"If it saved only one generation from the horrors of war it would be a great achievement."
One member shouted:
"Nobody wants it."
The premier paid special tribute to the work of the British expert advisers, which, he said, had been the object of the administration of the nations at the conference. And with an appeal for the Victory loan with one of his typical flashes, "Don't demobilize the spirit of patriotism." Speaking of the territorial terms of the treaty, Mr. Lloyd George said the territory taken from Germany was a matter of restoration. It was a restoration of Alsace-Lorraine, he said, taken forcibly from Germany, and then retaining the land against the wishes of the population, a restoration of "a Poland torn to bits by Russian, Austrian and Prussian autocracy and now reknit under the flag of Poland," and he added "they are all territories which ought not to belong to Germany."
Restrict Polish Rule.
The British delegation, the premier said, has taken a stand resolutely opposing any attempt to put a predominantly German population under Polish rule as it would be foolish to have another Alsace-Lorraine in Europe.
"I do not think any one can claim the terms imposed constitute injustice to Germany," the premier said in discussing the restoration clauses, "unless they believe justice in the war on the side of Germany. Having regard to the losses Germany made of her army, there is no injustice in scattering and disarming it. If the allies had restored the colonies to Germany after the evidences of ill treatment of the natives and the part the natives have taken in their own liberation, it would have been a base betrayal."
Then take the trial of those responsible for the war. If wars of this kind are to be prevented, those personally responsible for them, who have taken part in plotting and planning them, should be held personally responsible. Therefore, the entente decided that the man who undoubtedly had the primary responsibility, in the judgment, at any rate, of the allies, should be inflicting the offenses he committed in breaking treaties he was bound to honor and by that means bringing on the war.
"It was an exceptional course, and it's a pity it was, because if it had been done before there would have been fewer wars. The allied countries unanimously decided that a tribunal—an international one—should sit at London for the trial of these persons chiefly responsible for the war."
Those guilty of submarine outrages ought to be punished, for the officers should know that they would be held personally responsible for offenses against the laws of war.
Premier Lloyd George argued that it was not vengeance "to take every possible precaution against a recurrence of the war and to make such an example of Germany as will discourage ambitious rulers and peoples from ever again attempting to repeat this infamy. The German people approved the war and therefore it is essential in the terms to show if nations enter into unprovoked wars of aggression against their neighbors, what lies in store for them."
The premier's reference to the United States and England agreeing to aid France if she should be attacked was loudly cheered.
After referring to guarantees in the treaty, such as disarmament, which he declared should not be a "scrap of paper," the premier spoke on the bill dealing with the American and British guarantee in the event of an unprovoked attack on France, saying he did not suppose any section of the house would oppose that.

Must Aid France
"It is entered into with the approval of the league of nations," the premier stated. "Within living memory France has been invaded by Germany. With her population of 40,000,000 facing a population of 60,000,000 or 70,000,000, France had legitimate reason for feeling nervous apprehension when the American and British armies left. do not agree that the agreement showed lack of faith in the league of nations. After all the league would have no value unless it had behind it strong nations prepared at a moment's notice to stop aggression."
France was quite prepared, said the premier, to reconsider at the proper time the question of the occupation of the Rhine. There was an understanding with France. But the moment Germany carried out her undertaking regarding disarmament the cost of the army of occupation should not exceed 30,000,000 marks a year.
Lastly, there was the guarantee of the league of nations, a great and hopeful experiment, only rendered possible by other conditions. Without disarmament the league convention, like the other conventions, would be blown away by the first gust of war.
"Let us earnestly try it!" exclaimed the premier. "Had it been in existence in 1914 it would have saved the world from the first day of the war, instead of two years after."
The premier argued that it would have been a mistake to let Germany into the league while there were questions resulting from the war that still remain to be settled. He was sure that many hearts to accelerate the date of her entry by showing that the fire of war had purified the better it would be for Germany and the world.
Strip Hun of Colonies.
After alluding to the disposition of the colonies and the labor convention, Mr. Lloyd George, reviewing Great Britain's part in the war and the treaty, described it as a tremendous achievement. He was not sure that the great commonwealth of nations known as the British empire yet realized the great part it had in the achievement. He then passed in brief review, to the men who joined the colors, the money raised and the sacrifices of men and material made by the empire.
"It is a great record," he concluded. "Let us rejoice, but rejoice in it under no delusion that our troubles are ended, but rather like men who feel that the first and worst of our troubles are passed and that the spirit, courage and resolution which enabled us to overcome them will also enable us cheerfully to face what is to come. Let us not waste strength prematurely in fighting each other, but with all solemnity that if we wish to save this

ARKANSAS NATIONAL FORESTS RECEIVE AID
HOT SPRINGS, Ark., July 4. (Sp.)—The Arkansas national forests which have something like 65,000 acres of timbered land and 2,536 acres to be added soon in Polk, Yell, Montgomery, Logan and Garland counties, according to John L. Cobbs, the supervisor. If the forestry service gets the appropriation they are after, a number of extensive purchases are contemplated.
Up to June the receipts received from this forest was $50,057, the largest amount of funds turned into Washington by any of the national forests in the seventh district, which comprises those east of the Rocky mountains. According to Mr. Cobbs, local interest lies in the fact that by an act of congress 35 per cent of the amount goes to counties in the district. Road money in addition to an added 10 per cent to the road fund. In short the various counties in this section of the state will get $12,500.
A stretch of 3 1/2 miles of highway has been constructed from Hot Springs to Silver City, through the forest. Another road revealing its finishing touches is a 7 1/2 mile stretch from the forest boundary west of Womble to Polk county line. A proposed improvement will take in the Southern Trust company of Little Rock, and S. R. Morgan, of Little Rock, purchased the controlling interest of the Farmers' National Bank, to succeed N. H. Landis, Capt. J. D. Knight, late of the U. S. army, has been made vice-president. William N. Dunnaway continues as president, and F. J. Harmon, of Newport, has been made cashier.

KNOXVILLE PROTESTS

REMOVAL OF COURT
KNOXVILLE, Tenn., July 4. (Sp.)—Strong opposition will be voiced by the Knoxville bar, board of commerce, and business men of this city and East Tennessee generally against the proposed plan of holding all sessions of the state supreme court at Nashville in the future instead of holding the usual session here and at Jackson and Nashville. A concerted movement against the plan has begun.
Judge Will D. Wright stated that in his opinion such action could not be done legally, under the constitution of 1870. He declares that lawyers over all East Tennessee will strenuously oppose such a movement.
Judge Wright declared it would be a great injustice to Knoxville and East Tennessee as well as in violation of the constitution of Tennessee. It is stated that it would work a great hardship upon lawyers in the end of the state as they would be forced to pay the additional expense of sending their counsel to the capitol at Nashville.
